TUBE/SUBWAY

You can get free maps of the underground at any metro station.

- Nearest underground stations are : Denfert-Rochereau, Saint Jacques and Mouton Duvernet.

BUSES

In the underground stations you can also get free maps of the buses routes in Paris

- Bus lines coming to Denfert Rochereau : 88, 68, 38, 21...

TRAINS

In Paris, there are 5 railway stations with trains or RER crossing the city and going to and from the city's suburbs.

RER are regional trains faster than the underground train. They go through Paris at different stations:

RER A: Charles de Gaulle, Auber, Chatelet, Gare de Lyon, Nation

RER B: Gare du Nord, Chatelet, Saint Michel, Luxembourg, Port Royal, Denfert Rochereau,

Cité Universitaire

RER C: Champ de Mars-Tour Eiffel, Saint Michel

RER D: Gare du Nord, Chatelet, Gare de Lyon

- Gare du Nord : the biggest. RER B connects to Ch. de Gaulle Airport and to Antony station (for change towards Orly Airport). Other lines : RER D, metro line 4 and 5, buses.

- Gare Saint Lazare and Gare de l'Est : smaller, no direct connection to any RER. But underground lines and buses.

- Gare de Lyon : connected to RER A and D. Lines 1 and 14. Buses.

- Gare Montparnasse : no RER, but metro lines and buses

SCHEDULES

Tube/ Subway: Usually the metro opens around 05h30 a.m and closes around 01h00 a.m. On Friday and Saturday nights, the metro closes around 02h00 a.m

Buses: Most buses start around 6.00 a.m and finish around 9 p.m. Other finish around 11 p.m. There are several night buses also. They are indicated on the bus shelter. Free maps are available in the underground stations.

You must look on the details of each line to be sure of their schedule. Sometimes a bus can stop in the middle of his line. This information is indicated on the bus itself. Conductor will know and another bus going to the end of the line will follow soon.

Exceptions with demonstrations : this will stop bus traffic. Usually indicated on the shelter board.

TAXI

Price is indicated on the board. A fee of some Euros is added and varies if it is day or night time. This fee is indicated on the taximeter.

For UBER, you need an application. You do not pay the conductor, your credit card will be debited automatically.
